THE HOSEIS

Crazy Pops & His Games

A WONDERBOUND FAMILY STORY

Crazy Pops & His Games

THE HOSEIS / A RHYMING FAMILY STORY

For games that make us laugh and play,
And time together, every day.

Pops found his racket, grabbed a ball,
And gave the family quite a call.

“Who’s up for tennis? Come and see!”
Said Sophie, smiling, “Play with me!”

Dad served the ball across the net;
Sophie was ready, feet all set.

She sent it back; he raced to try.
The yellow ball went bouncing by.

They chased it left; they chased it right,
And filled the court with pure delight.

They stopped for water in the shade,
And laughed about the shots they’d made.

The rackets rested by the wall.

Now Pops went looking for a ball.

Young Ben, at twelve, was quick to say,
“I’m on your team! Come on, let’s play!”

With Nikki, Sophie took her place;
Their smiles were bright; they set the pace.

Dad bounced the ball; Ben darted wide.
“We’ve got this, Dad!” the youngster cried.

But Nikki saw a perfect lane
And passed to Sophie once again.

Then Sophie shot. The ball sailed through!

“Nice teamwork!” cheered the other two.

The winning pair exchanged a grin;
Dad cheered them on. “What a win!”

He wrote a song about their day,
And hummed it as he tucked it away.

“A board game next!” Olivia cried.
They pulled their chairs up side by side.

Six gathered round to roll and play;
The pieces started on their way.

Olivia watched each passing turn;
She saw a trick that she could learn.

One clever move! Her piece came through.
They cheered, “Olivia, good for you!”

They cheered her win and clapped with pride;
Pops gave a bow there by her side.

They put the cards and dice away,
Still telling stories of their day.

Three games, six smiles, a day of cheer,
With all the ones they loved held near.

The score could fade; the joy would stay.
Their greatest win was time to play.

Three games. Six smiles. A day to remember.

Tennis, basketball, and a clever final move.
Crazy Pops is ready for them all!

A rhyming family story about teamwork,
good sportsmanship, and making time to play.

Story and illustrations created with AI assistance.